

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH

Doris Herr-Gray hails from Frankfurt, Germany. She received her baccalaureate from the Ursulinenschule St. Angela with a concentration in modern languages and pursued her undergraduate studies in German literature at Ludwig-Maximilian Universität in Munich. She then pursued training in journalism in Bielefeld. She worked as journalist for the following 20 years, a decade as a foreign correspondent based first in South Africa, then in Kenya for the German Press Agency (dpa). Upon her relocation to the United States, she attained a graduate degree in Journalism (M.S.) at Florida A&M University (1997) and taught Journalism and Mass Communications at Tallahassee Community College. From 1999-2001, she taught as a Visiting Lecturer at Al Akhawayn University in Morocco. She received her doctoral degree from Florida State University in the Department of Modern Languages with a concentration on Francophone Studies. While at FSU, she taught French language courses and also taught in the Women's Studies Department.
